

Product development services

Our services

1. Supplier management
2. Production
3. Assembly
4. Quality control
5. Packing
6. Storage
7. Shipping

What we do

We facilitate the development and manufacturing of new products in China by providing design studios, incubators, companies, and enterprises with specific tools.

We take care of supplier selection and management; components, parts, and pieces reception; personalised assembly/setting up and quality control; stocking up and export with door-to-door delivery option for online sales.

We integrate the production processes you need to make your products and launch them to the market.

Why we do it

We ourselves have struggled with the challenges entailed by all new business projects as to ensuring parts or machinery sources, assembly, stocking up, and distribution. We now put our experience to the service of design studios, startups, crowdsourcing projects, and enterprises.

The issues we address

At the initial stages of a business project it is commonplace to be faced with piled boxes waiting for a way of assembly to turn up, which entails import and warehousing costs until the project is set up and the sales speed up. In addition, once the products have been imported, the sales potential becomes limited to local markets, thus reducing the chances of international sales.

Why us

The team at Rapids has extensive experience in the development of new products, industrial processes, and international trading.

Who value our services

Our services are mostly requested by:

Startups:

They have the idea and project development, they have the drawings, sketches, and technical information, but they have yet to implement them! It is necessary to get the production up and running and to ensure logistics for international sales and e-commerce.

Industrial design firms:

They develop products for their customers, who need to produce in China, but lack the know how to implement the production.

Business incubators:

We increase the chances of success of incubated projects by providing the production, e-commerce and logistics tools, and reducing the implementation costs.

Crowdfunding:

These are growing launching pads of new products, in particular in IoT format, which require formalising their productive process.

Commercial and trading firms:

These are trading companies which are not producers themselves and wish to produce in China and then implement new global business strategies through e-commerce.

Our service line

How we can help you and when.

Our services are designed to fit in any time you need it, to produce and make real your project and products. Form the fist stages of the production up to your shipping requirement.

Product development services

 Call us, we can help you in developing your new product.